Article 30

Common security and defence policy

1. The common security and defence policy, which is an integral part of the common foreign and security policy, shall provide the Union with an operational crisis management capability, which makes use of military and civilian means. This capability is solely aimed to be deployed ~~The Union may deploy them on~~ for tasks outside the Union to preserve peace and strengthen international security in accordance with the principles of the United Nations Charter and under the United Nations mandate.

1bis. The European Union repudiates war since it results in an instrument of offence to the liberties of other peoples and rejects it as a means of resolving international controversies; under condition of equality with other international actors it agrees to the limitations of sovereignty necessary to a system that ensures peace and justice amongst Nations; it promotes and favours all international organisations directed towards the same aim.

2. The common security and defence policy shall include the ~~progressive~~ framing of a common defence policy for the Union. ~~This will lead to a common defence, when the European Council, acting unanimously, so decides. It shall in that case recommend to the Member States the adoption of such a decision in accordance with their respective constitutional requirements.~~

The policy of the Union in accordance with this Article shall not prejudice the specific character of the security and defence policy of certain Member States. ~~and shall respect~~

~~the obligations of certain Member States, which see their common defence realised in the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO), under the North Atlantic Treaty and be compatible with the common security and defence policy established within that framework.~~

3. Member States shall make military and civilian capabilities available to the common security and defence policy, to contribute to the objectives defined by the European Institutions. ~~Council.~~

~~Member States shall undertake progressively to improve their military capabilities. A European Armaments and Strategic Research Agency shall be established to identify operational requirements, to put forward measures to satisfy those requirements, to contribute to identifying and, where appropriate, implementing any measure needed to strengthen the industrial and technological base of the defence sector, and to assist the Council in evaluating the improvement of its military capabilities.~~

Those Member States which establish multinational forces together may also make those forces available to the common security and defence policy.

4. Decisions on the implementation of the common security and defence policy, including those initiating a task as referred to in this Article, shall be adopted by the Council and the European Parliament ~~acting unanimously~~ on a proposal from the Union's Minister for Foreign Affairs or from a Member State. ~~The Minister for Foreign Affairs may propose the use of both national resources and Union instruments, together with the Commission, where appropriate.~~

A budget to cover the costs of the EDSP will be included in the EU budget.

5. The Council may entrust the execution of a task, within the Union framework, to a group of Member States. The execution of such a task shall be governed by Article 18 in Part Two, Title B, of the Constitution.

~~6. Those Member States which fulfil higher criteria for military capabilities and which have made more binding commitments to one another in this area with a view to more~~

~~demanding tasks shall establish structured cooperation within the Union framework. Such cooperation shall be governed by the provisions of Article 20 of Part Two, Title B, of the Constitution.~~

~~7. Until such time as the European Council has acted in accordance with paragraph 2 of this Article, closer cooperation shall be established, in the Union framework, as regards mutual defence. Under this cooperation, if one of the Member States participating in such cooperation is the victim of armed aggression on its territory, the other participating States shall give it aid and assistance by all the means in their power, military and other, in accordance with Article 51 of the United Nations Charter. The detailed arrangements for participation in this cooperation and its operation, and the relevant decision making procedures, are set out in Article 21 of Part Two, Title B, of the Constitution.~~

Member States shall have the duty to assist each other in case of a military attack from outside.

Military assistance of third countries, as part of the common defence, may be granted only upon a request by the Union. In the framework of a common defence against an attack, the supreme command over military action must not be transferred to any third country.

~~8. The European Parliament shall be consulted on the main aspects and basic choices of the common security and defence policy, and shall be kept informed of how it develops.~~

Military deployment and sanctions against states within the framework of the common security and defence policy shall require the assent of the European Parliament.
